

Support the 2019 San Luis Valley Rural Philanthropy Days Conference

September 17-19, 2019

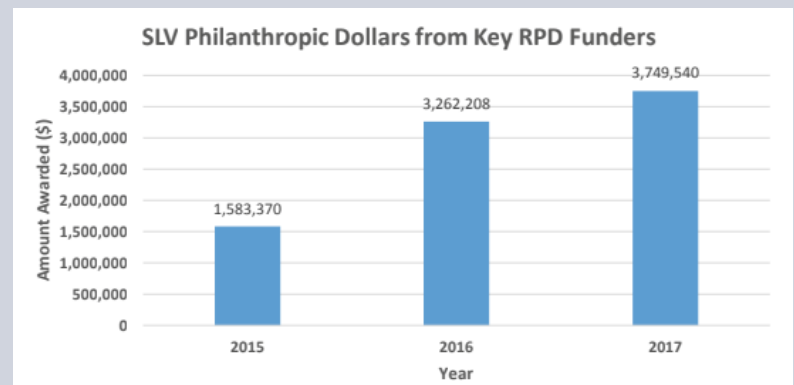

In 1991, Sue Anschutz-Rodgers learned that only 3% of Colorado's philanthropic dollars were being allocated to rural nonprofits across the state. For 27 years, the Anschutz Family Foundation has partnered with the Community Resource Center to bring donors and rural nonprofits face-to-face. The three-day conference also includes trainings and networking opportunities. As of 2017, more than 20% of Colorado's philanthropic dollars are helping rural communities.

Funders and nonprofit staff have face-to-face conversations and learn ways to partner.

In 2019, 250 individuals representing hundreds of SLV nonprofits, government agencies and statewide grantmakers are expected to attend.

Rural Philanthropy Days (RPD) comes to the San Luis Valley (SLV) every four years. Following the 2015 RPD conference, financial support from core funders has more than doubled in an upward trend.

Rural Philanthropy Days is coordinated in partnership with:
